COMMENCEMENT OF WAR CLASS AT KINGSTON HIGH SCHOOL

58 Graduates Who Studied at Critical Period In World's History Made Up First Class Turned Out at New School---Auditorium Filled to Hear Essays---Virgil DeWitt Prize Speaker on "Our City"

Fifty-eight graduates of Kingston High School finished the first lap in life's journey Tuesday night as they bade good-bye to the first alma mater and stepped out into a new world, a world that is facing new problems, social, industrial, commercial and political; a world that has stood the acid test, that has new and higher ideals and whose people have a new conception of life and of the things for which life is worth living. This class of 1919 will be a memorable one in the history of Kingston High School, not only because it is the first simon pure class of Kingston High School but because it has "lived" through the four years of the world's greatest conflict. As freshmen these boys and girls heard the first boom of cannon that was destined to rock the world and draw every leading country into a war that put democracy, freedom, liberty and happiness at stake. These 58 students, with others in the school, had the opportunity of studying each move. They saw the map of Europe change daily. They were imbued with a spirit of patriotism and loyalty never before aroused to such a pitch. They were in a position to read the opinions of the world's greatest writers, to study the thoughts of greatest statesmen. Last night they stood on the threshold, thrown upon their own responsibilities, to mold their futures, to carve their characters, to fit themselves to serve a nation that is crying for men and women to shape its destinies.

The high school auditorium was filled with parents, relatives and friends of the graduates. As Muller's orchestra played "Hands Across the Sea," the class of 1919 marched on the stage followed by the high school faculty and President H. H. Flemming of the board of education, Superintendent M. J. Michael, Principal Lewis, and the Rev. P. C. Weyant of Trinity M. E. Church and the Rev. F. C. Moot of the Ponckhockie Church. Bouquets and baskets of flowers of every kind and color were banked against the footlights. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Weyant. In presenting the first speaker, Virgil DeWitt, Principal Lewis explained that all of the speakers had been chosen according to their standing with the exception of the first speaker, whose essay, "Our City," had taken first prize in a contest recently conducted by the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. DeWitt had been chosen, stated Principal Lewis, because the faculty considered his essay worth listening to. Mr. DeWitt's essay was as follows:

The Prize Essay.

"The traditions of the suffering, the heroism and the tenacity of the early settlers of Kingston should be an inspiration to the citizens of this historic town. History tells us of their struggles to protect their homes against the warring Indians and later on of their indomitable courage shown in the time of the Revolution. It has been written that one cannot walk the streets of Kingston without feeling the force of the past. In the February issue of one of our popular magazines, there was a wonderful picture of Abraham Lincoln entitled "His Spirit Abideth," and so we think that the spirit of these brave Hollanders and Frenchmen, the early settlers of our now beautiful town, abideth today.

"After its incorporation as a village in 1805, it grew rapidly and soon developed into a busy, bustling town. Today it stands as one of the most beautiful cities along the Hudson river. Overshadowed by the majestic peaks of the Catskills, it would be difficult to find a town with surroundings more attractive to the lover of beauty. The marvelous charm of the Ashokan reservoir, the rock bound lakes of the Shawangunks, and the rolling hills, winding streams and productive gardens of the Rondout valley. We have cause for pride in its churches, public buildings, playgrounds, parks and its fine educational system.

"There is something significant in the fact that Kingston's most imposing building is its high school. Why did our men and women deem it necessary to construct such a fine building? One which architects and prospective builders come from various points of New York state and from other states to view. Because the citizens considered the education of their sons and daughters to be of paramount importance. Surely the high school with its simple and dignified architecture in itself cannot but hold an educational and cultural influence for its students as well as its citizens. The youth of Kingston cannot too much appreciate the advantages which the school affords, for in this beautiful building one may choose from a large variety of courses, ranging from woodwork and agriculture to art and literature; from sewing and cooking and business training to the sciences and the ancient classics. In short if any Kingston boy or girl does not build a good foundation for the future, whether it be in commercial or industrial fields, in the home or in the professions, it is not through the lack of opportunity.

"Besides this, Kingston has exceptional business advantages. What city could be better situated for commerce and industry? What city could wish for better railroad systems or natural water facilities? Near the river are many boat yards and docks which employ hundreds of men, while scattered throughout the city are over thirty large factories. When we hear people complaining of the inactivity of their city, we need merely to remind them that at the present time we have been producing articles ranging from hair brushes to six cylinder automobiles, from lace curtains to iron castings, and from cigars to submarine chasers. More than that, new merchants are coming to the city, not only on account of the local trade but also for the exceptional country patronage. The wheels of industry are kept moving, and at last our sleepy old Dutch town is awaking and will grow all the more vigorous for the new opportunities which are in store for it.

"But what would all this education, this stir and bustle of industry be without means of recreation, sources of pleasure or some appeal to the aesthetic sense. There are drives leading to the Catskills, to the Shawangunks and along the river. There are delightful public parks, one situated on the Hudson which is exceptional beautiful with its long pavilion, its rocky hills, its green spaces, the broad expanse of the river and the blue Catskills in the background, all contributing to make it one of nature's beauty spots. Best of all perhaps, is the fact that the open country is found on all sides. For the sportsman there is the Ashokan reservoir and the surrounding hills where game abounds. It would seem that Kingston has enough advantages, enough beauties, enough sources of pleasure to discourage the habit of fault finding and criticism which is too easily acquired and to develop a belief in the city and enthusiasm for its growth and continued progress.

"Kingston has won her share of patriotic laurels, for many of her sons went at our nation's call to help bring about freedom's victory. Not only its sons but many of her daughters answered the call of distress and did their part in the nation's and the world's struggle toward their ideals. As has been said, Kingston has won her laurels, but now as each state, each city, each man, woman and child turns over a new page, Kingston, as well as the rest of the world, must again prove her merits. As we look into the dawn of this new era, we see our city in all her greatness, surrounded and threaded with factories, schools, churches, municipal buildings and public institutions, and inhabited by thrifty, patriotic, high-minded men and women, boys and girls."

Miss Marion Kingman.

"The Realm of Imagination" was the subject of Miss Marion Kingman's essay. The world of imagination, said she, is much greater than the world of fact. It stretches far into the past and far into the future. Imagination may be morbid and gloomy, but Miss Kingman chose to deal with the kind that brings inspiration and happiness. "Everyone," said she, "is entitled to a part in this land of fancy. In our world of great wealth and great poverty, there have been many struggles on account of the uneven distribution of gold and silver, but in the realm of the mind, each person may possess as much as he desires. Imagination is wealth in itself."

Illustrating this point, Miss Kingman contrasted the poor and the rich. The millionaire, said she, may live in a world of fact, the poor man in a world of fancy. The millionaire dwells amid luxuries, while the poor man dreams of them. But the millionaire has trouble on all sides which the poor man can overlook in his imaginings. Invalids, too, said the speaker, are sometimes the happiest people in the world because they have the power of imagination. Though shut in they can dream of lands far distant. Again, she said, imagination helps one to sympathize with great men of the past. One who imagines, the speaker remarked, can share the experiences of Aeneas, defending the walls of Troy, of Ulysses, of King Arthur, Joan of Arc. One can take part in the Crimean War, the battles under Russian skies, and suffer with Washington the untold hardships of Valley Forge.

In early history Miss Kingman pointed to Alexander the Great and Julius Caesar as men of vision. Also to the explorers of the sixteenth century, the Pilgrim fathers and to the pioneers on the western frontier. "The reconstruction work," said she, "over in the war region is being planned by men of vision. These men see France and Belgium restored to their former beauty and prosperity. They see, instead of scarred, devastated fields, a land smiling with beautiful gardens and splendid buildings and happy homes. Not only shall torn France and Belgium, but the whole world has today a

ELIMINATES 40 ELECTION CLERKS

Recent Amendments to Election Law of State Will Eliminate That Number in Kingston, Saving $400 to the City.

A recent amendment to the state election law provides that instead of having four inspectors of election, and two ballot and two poll clerks, that hereafter there shall be but four inspectors and two general clerks. The new law will affect the appointment of election officials for the November election and as Kingston has twenty election districts it will mean that forty ballot and poll clerks will be eliminated. As the ballot and poll clerks received $10 a day it means that the city will save $400 a day for each day they would have served under the old election law.

COONS BEAT UP PRINCIPAL MINER

Because His Daughter Failed To Pass Exam's, Downs Street Father Assaulted Head of School No. 6—Further Developments.

Tuesday Martin Coons of Downs street paid a visit to School No. 6 on O'Neil street, and because his daughter failed to pass her examinations he assaulted Principal Harley A. Miner, and badly bruised the principal about the face.

From what could be learned Coons, while in the private office of Principal Miner, became abusive and used unfit language. He was ordered from the building by the principal, and retaliated by knocking the principal down.

The matter has been brought to the attention of the school authorities and they decided to press the case against Coons. This morning a warrant was issued for the arrest of Coons on a charge of assault in the third degree.

When the case comes up for a hearing the facts in the case will be more thoroughly brought out.

ULSTER FRUIT MOVING.

N. Y. Truck Drivers' Strike Diverting Many Cars to Boston.

Red Antwerp raspberries and cherries from Ulster county are in the local market. The West Shore is running a long fruit train each evening from the lower part of the county to Boston, a number of box cars being filled each evening with berries now and soon will be loaded with currants and grapes. The fruit train causes a delay each night of the west bound train due at the Union station at 7:10, having to wait while cars are being loaded with fruit on the fruit train ahead. Since the strike of truck drivers in New York city the shippers in southern Ulster are sending considerable more fruit to Boston market instead of New York.

LOCAL GIRLS IN NYACK

To Spend Summer Working in Fresh Air Colony There.

This morning a number of high school girls left for Mont Lawn at Nyack, N. Y., where the Christian Herald maintains a fresh air colony for the poor children of New York city and where they will spend the summer vacation months at dormitory work. The colony when filled to capacity has accommodations for 3,000 children. The high school girls who left today were Miss Elizabeth Bishop of Sleightsburgh, Miss Llevellyna Gill, Miss Dorothy Gill, Miss Helena Gill and Miss Francella Anderson, all of Ponckhockie, and Miss Enid St. Lawrence of Saugerties.

Mrs. Smith Burned to Death.

Mrs. Mary Vermilyea Smith, 81 years old, wife of Joel Smith of Coxsackie, died at noon Tuesday from burns suffered when her clothing caught fire. Mrs. Smith was wiping off the cook stove with her dress when it caught fire. She fell to the floor. The jar was heard by the husband, who is 86 years old. He tore off the burning clothing but Mrs. Smith died about fifteen minutes later. Coroner Van Slyke of Coxsackie was notified. Mr. and Mrs. Smith moved to Coxsackie from Philmont twenty-three years ago. They were married sixty-four years ago. Mrs. Smith was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abram S. Vermilyea of Phoenix. Besides her husband she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Anna Drake of Coxsackie.

Circus Settles With Miss Hoben.

Miss Rose Hoben of Partition street, says the Saugerties Post, has made a very satisfactory settlement with the J. F. Murphy shows as a result of an accident on the carnival grounds on the night of June 16. Miss Hoben was struck in one foot by a bullet from a 22-calibre rifle that fell from a rack at a shooting gallery connected with the shows. Grant M. Brinker was the attorney for Miss Hoben.

Ponckhockie Library Opens.

The Ponckhockie Public Library will be open during July and August Wednesday evenings from 6 to 7 o'clock. The library will also be open this week on Thursday evening at the same hour.

FATHER REILLY TO E. KINGSTON

Rumor Has It That He Will Succeed the Rev. Frances P. J. Cummings to That Parish—Father Cummings in New York.

The Rev. Francis P. J. Cummings of East Kingston, who was appointed rector of St. Stephen's Church in New York city to fill the vacancy caused by the elevation of Archbishop Hayes, has assumed charge of his new parish.

Rumor has it that the parish of St. Colman's Church at East Kingston is to be assigned to the Rev. John B. Reilly of St. Charles Berremo Church on 141st street, New York city, and that he will assume charge about the first of July.

The assignment of Father Reilly to the East Kingston parish could not be verified at the time this was written.

JOHN DIETZ CUT HIS THROAT

Civil War Veteran Used an Old Saw This Morning in the Yard of His Home at 14 Cedar Street—Expected to Live.

John Dietz, a Civil War veteran, of No. 14 Cedar street, attempted suicide at 11 o'clock this morning by cutting his neck from ear to ear with a hack saw. He was rushed to the Benedictine Sanitarium in the city ambulance and given medical attention by Dr. William J. O'Leary. The cut was an ugly gash, but it was stated that Dietz had a fighting chance for recovery provided no infections set in. The artery was not severed.

Dietz lived with his sister, Mrs. George Lawrence. No reason could be given why he attempted his life. Last night he was at Kingston Point with his nephew and was apparently in the best of spirits. This morning he went out to the wood shed in the rear of the house to saw wood. He was found a short time after with his throat cut and the rusty hack saw beside him. The ambulance was summoned and arrived at the scene with Officers Kuehn and Reardon, almost simultaneously with Dr. O'Leary. The police department has the saw at headquarters in the city hall.

F. S. OSTERHOUDT HUNG HIMSELF

The body of Frank S. Osterhoudt, superintendent of highways for the town of Ulster, was found dangling from the fence surrounding his property in Flatbush at 6 o'clock this morning. One end of a rope was knotted about his neck, the other end tied stoutly to the top of the fence. His feet were touching the ground, but the body sagged slightly to one side causing strangulation.

It is thought that Mr. Osterhoudt took his life shortly after midnight. For some time he has been suffering from cancer of the stomach. Recently he underwent an operation, but was told a few days ago that he must go under the knife again before he could be given relief from his pains. It is thought that this preyed upon his mind and made him despondent. Tuesday evening he seemed to be feeling all right, and spent much of the night with a neighboring farmer. His body was found by Eugene Falk, an employe on the state road and was stone cold, giving evidence that he had been dead for some time.

Mr. Osterhoudt was 50 years old and married. He has two children, a son and daughter, both married. He was a prominent farmer in Flatbush and held the office of highway superintendent for three terms. The body was taken in charge by A. Carr & Son of this city. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late home.

SUMMER VACATION WORK.

Applications Now May be Had at Health Board Office.

The board of health has received application blanks for summer vacation working permits for school pupils who would care to work during the summer. These permits can be used only for work in mercantile establishments, such as stores, etc., and cannot be used to work in factories.

Riots in Toronto.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Toronto, Ont., June 25.—Rioting broke out in the car strike here early today. A big crowd tried to rush the car barns where a number of strike-breakers are housed. The men inside turned the hose on the crowd. During the trouble Police Inspector Reeves was struck on the head by a brick. Two men were arrested on charges of rioting.

Dance at Casino Tonight.

Shurter's orchestra will furnish the music for dancing at the Kingston Point Casino this evening. Dancing from 8 until 12 o'clock.

ALL LEFT OF HIS FORD IS THE KEY

N. D. J. Murphy, the popular and genial undertaker, and the Rev. Francis P. J. Cummings of East Kingston, motored to New York city last Friday in Mr. Murphy's Ford touring car. Mr. Muphy parked this car on the street in the big city while transacting some business, and some one unknown helped himself to the car. That was the last seen or heard of it by Mr. Murphy, and all that he has left of the Ford is the key.

GETS NIAGARA JOB.

E. R. Waldenberger Named Supt. Of Falls Reservation.

Judge Clearwater, president of the state reservation commission at Niagara, has certified to the comptroller and to the civil service commission, the appointment by the reservation commission of E. R. Waldenberger of 580 Minneford avenue, Long Island City, as the appointee of the commission for superintendent of the reservation in the place of Harry K. Eckert, resigned.

There were thirty-nine applicants for the position, who took the civil service examination. Among them were three from Ulster county, Sanford A. Cross of Kyserike, Julian Burroughs of West Park and Thomas S. Lennox of Glenford. Of the thirty-nine the civil service commission certified to the reservation commission that twelve had passed an examination sufficiently high to entitle them to be placed upon the eligible list. Of the twelve, two were Sanford A. Cross and Julian Burroughs, although neither were among the first three from which the commission was obliged to make its selection.

Waldenberger passed at 96 per cent out of a possible 100 per cent. He is thirty-one years of age; was born in the city of New York of Holland descent; took a three years' course in agriculture at Cornell university; graduated from the school of forestry at Syracuse university in 1913; from September, 1913, to June, 1915, he was the field secretary for the Massachusetts Forestry Association; from 1915 to 1918 city forester of the city of Bayonne, N. J., and superintendent of parks of that city in June, 1918, he entered the military service of the United States as machine gun instructor. Immediately after he was mustered out of the service this spring, he was employed as the district field manager by the Pennsylvania chestnut tree blight commission, and was invited by the United States forestry service in the Sierra national forest of California, to accept the position of field assistant in its employ. Judge Clearwater, representing the state, attended the civil service examination of the various candiates, and speaks highly of the impression made by men from Ulster county. The commission regards itself as fortunate in that so many men of high type qualified for the position.

LIQUOR IN HOME.

Right To Store Against Drouth Upheld In House Committee.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 25.—A man's right to store liquor in his home for the long dry period after July 1, stood up Tuesday against an attack on that provision of the prohibition enforcement bill before the House judiciary committee.

Even with this and other changes, the bill as it will be reported tomorrow or Thursday is considered as all embracing. So drastic are its provisions, members of the committee said, that while a man may put a keg of beer in his cellar he may be convicted and fined if, for instance, he wears a watch fob on which there is a picture of the keg as an advertisement.

National Buttermilk Day.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 25.—July 1 is National Buttermilk Day. Buttermilk, the United States department of agriculture thinks, is one of the best drinks in the world—nutritious, palatable and full of zest and vim. The man who drinks buttermilk regularly and copiously is doing a good turn for himself. That is one of the purposes of proclaiming national buttermilk day. The other is that the dairy industry in the United States will be encouraged.

Willys Buys F. I. A. T. Plant.

The Electric Auto-Lite Corporation, makers of self-starting machinery for gasoline motors, and other motoring accessories, is Poughkeepsie's newest industry. The company, which is one of the John N. Willy's concerns, will occupy the former F. I. A. T. plant and acreage in the North road. Seven hundred workers, chiefly skilled machinists and mechanics, will be employed by the new concern within the next three months, it is reported.

Our Growing Population.

Recent births reported to the health board include:

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Abrens of No. 62 Second avenue, a son, John C. O.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Naleka of No. 12 Second avenue, a son, John.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Irving Dyer of No. 221 East Strand, a daughter, May June.

ALLIES TO PROD BAUER TO NAME NEW PEACE DELEGATES

Mueller's Appointment Unconfirmed---Foch Set For Advance---600 Will See Cold and Formal Signing, Probably on Friday.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, June 25.—Unless the German government announces the personnel of a new peace delegation by this evening, the allied and associated governments will send a note to Germany and call Premier Bauer to order in the sharpest terms, reminding them that their patience is exhausted.

In the meantime Marshal Foch has been instructed to hold his troops in readiness.

(The French newspaper La Liberte reported yesterday that Foreign Minister Mueller had been named to head the German delegation but it was stated at the French foreign office that no official information of the personnel of the delegation has been received.)

Cold formality will mark the final scene in the drama of the world war. There will be no friendly exchanges between the allied and German peace delegates, it was decided today. Any attempts by the Germans to debate the treaty problems before signing or to make further oratorical protests will not be permitted. The council of five has decided that there will be but one speech. That will be made by Premier Clemenceau as president of the peace conference, in opening the meeting. Then the signing of the treaty will begin, the big five signing first, then the smaller allied powers, and lastly the Germans. President Wilson's seal, affixed to the treaty document, is a replica of the American flag. Clemenceau's seal is an owl.

The day on which the ceremony will take place has not been fixed, although it is believed in French official circles that arrangements may be completed for signing on Friday afternoon. Besides the allied and German delegates, 600 persons will be admitted to the Versailles palace to witness the signing; including 350 newspaper correspondents and 250 distinguished guests. As the German delegates leave the palace, they will receive the salute of a French guard. That will be the only direct evidence that the war is ended.

BOARD OF FIRE COMMISSIONERS

The board of fire commissioners held their monthly meeting at Central Fire Station, Tuesday night, and transacted routine business, auditing payrolls and bills. Harry Richter was appointed an emergency fireman for three months to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Louis Kolts. Mr. Richter is a returned soldier. After the session there was an informal discussion among the commissioners as to the early purchasing of an auto hook and ladder truck with appurtenances. The commissioners instructed Clerk B. J. Hornbeck to request the municipal civil service commission to furnish an eligible list from which selection may be made for a fireman in the paid department. C. J. Shultz of Saginaw, Mich., who is visiting Commissioner Louis Kolts, was a guest at the meeting.

W. S. S. SALES INCREASE HERE

June 25th, 1919.

The drive for W. S. S. sales and pledges in Ulster county already shows an encouraging impetus, sales increasing at points in city of Kingston and county. The public is not waiting to be called on but many are calling at the post offices and purchasing W. S. stamps. Each post office has a supply of pledge cards, also the letter carriers, so patrons at offices and on routes can receive them if desired.

Bellearre, Ulster county, is the first village to ask for an extra credit of war savings stamps, indicating that the teams are busy there. How many know where Bellearre is? Bellearre's patriotic action will inspire other larger towns.

Now, captains and team workers, city and county, please busy yourselves, organize your districts, and make your canvass daytimes and evenings as convenient, so that every house and business place in Ulster county will be visited before July 28th. The people are waiting and will respond.

Fine Lot of June Roses.

John Lown, a Civil War veteran, and an employe of the city, residing at 92 Prospect street, claims to have the finest display of June roses to be found in this city or county, in his back yard. The collection consists chiefly of pink and red ramblers, carefully trained over beautiful white trellises. There are also many other magnificent species. Mr. and Mrs. Lown have given their special attention to the cultivation of the bushes and the result shows much hard, earnest work.

SIX TRANSPORTS SAIL FOR HOME

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 25.—Six troop ships, bringing 11,239 officers and men of the A. E. F. home from France, sailed on June 22, the war department announced this afternoon. They are:

IN THE SERVICE OF OUR COUNTRY

Captain Harold Clarke, sanitary inspector of the local board of health has received his honorable discharge from the service and has returned home. He spent considerable time overseas.

Lieut. Col. Girard L. McEntee of the Ninth Division, arrived from over seas Friday last, landing at Hoboken at 4 p. m., where he was met by his mother, Mrs. Girard L. McEntee of this city. Lieut. Col. McEntee had a twenty-four hour leave which he spent in this city, leaving Sunday afternoon for Camp Merritt, where he was ordered to report Monday morning.

ABOUT THE FOLKS.

Mrs. L. M. Short of TenBroeck avenue is visiting Mrs. Luther Shultis of Wittenberg.

Miss Celeste Keefe of Brooklyn, is spending her vacation at her home, 291 Washington avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Palmer and two children attended the parade and carnival at Saugerties last week.

Leslie Munson has resigned his position as chauffeur for the Hauck Brewing Co., and has started in business for himself.

Supervisor and Mrs. Joseph Schuler are in Poughkeepsie attending the Stokes-Pottenburgh wedding, the former being a niece of Mr. Schuler.

Charles H. Knight of No. 7 Lindsley avenue, left this afternoon for Manchester, Conn., and will spend the summer visiting points of interest in the New England states, where he spent his boy and early manhood.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Thursday evening the Loyal Friends' Aid Society will hold a dance in the Pavilion. Palen's orchestra will furnish the music and a good time is assured all.

The last meeting for the summer of the Missionary Society of St. James's Church will be held at the home of Mrs. Hogeboom, 149 Main street, on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The pastor, Rev. T. H. Baragwanath, will lead the devotional and a thank offering program in charge of Mrs. Lamont Ettinge will be given. A large attendance is desired.

Kingstonians at Auto Convention.

Several Kingston people during the current week have enjoyed short automobile tours through the scenic Finger Lakes region of central New York. Among them are J. F. Loughran and W. R. Bennett. They were both delegates to the mid-summer convention of the New York state automobile convention held Monday and Tuesday in Auburn.

Rudd Heads Law School Trustees.

Supreme Court Justice Rudd was chosen on Tuesday, president of the board of trustees of the Albany Law School to succeed Amasa J. Parker, for twenty-five years head of the board. The trustees elected Frederick E. W. Darrow of Kingston, a trustee of the Law School, to succeed himself.

315 Pound Sturgeon.

Francis Heickert displayed at Highland Tuesday a 315 pound sturgeon caught in the Hudson river about sixty miles above New York city.

INDEPENDENTS ALL OUT OF LUCK

Eddie Barrett of The All-Stars Was the Main Reason For Them Coming Home at the Short End of a 9-0 Score at Forsyth—U. & D. vs. Y. M. C. A. This Evening.

Up at Forsyth Park last evening the Warren All-Stars backed up their reputation for being the champions of this old Colonial city, the fastest bunch of ball tossers now playing on a diamond hereabouts, both in batting, fielding and big league ball playing, when they walloped the Independents to the tune of 9-0. Eddie Barrett, the Star's portsider, was on the hill and tossed them in so fast and classy that he whitewashed them and presented them with a string of goose eggs for future reference. He allowed them (4) hits, (2) to Robbins, (1) to Schwab and (1) to Miles, and to the others just a peek at the ball. Barrett not only pitched a masterly game of ball, but fielded his position without an error, while at the bat he was second only to Ty Cobb with (4) hits, a triple a double and two singles. Four times at bat he scored (2) runs, stole (4) bases, and drove in (3) of the (9) runs his club is credited with. He fanned (6) and walked (4). The Stars fielded without an error and batted .400 per cent in the game. They stole (17) bases, hammered out (13) hits for a total of (18) bases and scored (9) runs, leaving (6) on the bases. They pulled off (2) of the fastest and finest double plays every pulled off.

The Stars that deserve worthy mention for their part in the game outside of the battery are. Conners Kid Moore, who was the slugging Star of all, Cullen and McLean.

Everyone of the Stars got a hit except Coffey and Maisenhelder. Barrett batted 1.000 per cent and Moore, Avery, Cullen and Clark batted .500.

McAuliffe, the Independent's hurler, pitched a classy game after the second inning, it being a duel between him and his rival, both slabmen being on equal basis

Those who starred for the losing team were Robins, batting and fielding, and the fielding of Kiernan, Schwab and Roach, and the backstopping of McMahon. The Independents were handicapped by Jerry Avery in not being able to steal a base. There were about 1,200 fans to witness the game, among these being Charles Warren, the honorary president of the winners

First Inning, All Stars—Kid Moore hit a hot liner to Rourke at short. Connors smashed one at Miles at second and fumbled it, Moore going to second, Connors safe at first. Hub Coffey laid down a bunt, which McAuliffe gathered in and tossed to Robins, forcing Moore at third. Connors and Coffey pulled a double steal. Avery shot a single to left, scoring Connors. Cullen hit to left and Coffey dented the plate. Barrett tripled to center, sending home Avery and Cullen. Matt Clark got a free ticket to first and stole second. With one down McLean walked to plate and smashed out a double to center, cleaning the bases. Barrett and Clark tallied. McLean stole third. Maisenhelder fanned. Kid Moore stepped to the plate for the second time, shot a single center and McLean chalked up the 7th run for the Warren All Stars. Connors walked to the plate and Kid Moore stole second and third on two pitched balls. McAuliffe fanned Connors, retiring the side. 7 runs, 6 hits, 1 error.

Independents—Miles, first man to face Barrett, received a free ticket to first base. Rourke fanned the breeze, Schwab smashed a line drive that looked like a clean single, but Connors made a wonderful stab at the sphere and pulled it down and shot it to nest to Coffey, killing Miles and completing a fast double play, retiring the side. No runs, no hits, no errors

2nd All Stars—Coffey flied out to Schwab in left. Avery doubled to center and stole third while Cullen fanned; Barrett shot a single to center, sending Avery across the plate Kid Moore, running for Barrett, stole second, third and dented the plate, when Matt Clark drove a double to center, Clark going out at third in trying to stretch the hit into a triple, by Kiernan's fast fielding and perfect throw to Robins 2 runs, 2 hits, no errors

Independents—Robins singled to center. Roche smashed a wicked drive to Kid Moore on short, who tossed it to Maisenhelder, smothering Robins at second. Maisenhelder shot the ball to Hub Coffey, killing Roche at first and completing the second double play in two innings. Joe Coffey sent a high one back of the plate, which Jerry Avery gathered in No runs, 1 hit, no errors

3rd inning All Stars—McAuliffe tightened up and fanned McLean and Maisenhelder on six pitched balls He then made Kid Moore hit to Rourke, who tossed the ball to Roche, retiring the side No runs no hits, no errors.

Independents—Kiernan walked. McMahon flied out to Kid Moore. McAuliffe was out on his weak otrening, Barrett to Coffey, sending Kiernan to second Miles hit up a high fly to the outfield, McLean and Cullen coming in for it Kid Moore, after a great run, got under the ball, hit his glove, bounced out, hit the ground and into Cullen's hands. This was a scratchy hit Cullen held Kiernan at second. Miles safe at first. Rourke walked filling the bases Schwab walloped out a terrific grounder, Kid Moore making a wonderful one-handed stop and shot it to Hub Coffey, retiring the side, pulling Barrett out of a hole and the Independents losing their only chance of scoring. No runs, 1 hit, no errors

4 Inn. All Stars. Connors singled to center and reached second and third by the grand larceny act, McAuliffe tightened up and fanned Coffey, Avery and Cullen in one, two, three order. 0 runs, 1 hit, 0 errors.

Ind.—Robins got a pass to first from Barrett and like McAuliffe fanned Roach, Joe Coffey and Kiernan Roach dying on first afraid of Avery's arm to steal second 0 runs, 0 hits, 0 errors

5 Inn. All Stars, Barrett the Nom de Plume fork-flinger of the Stars trotted to the plate smashed a double to center. His third hit of the game a triple and single preceding this. Kid Moore running for Barrett was out stealing third McMahon to Robins.

Moore would have stolen this base clean and safe but Robins blocked the bag and Moore sacrificed himself to be put out rather than spike Robins.

Clark and Cullen walked and pulled off a double steal successfully. Maisenhelder flied out to Schwab who returned the ball to Robins holding Clark at 3rd. Kid Moore hammered out high fly to right-center Kiernan making a wonderful one handed catch. This hit was good for a circuit clout if he missed it for it had the wings. 0 run, 1 hit, 0 erors.

Ind. McMahon shot a line drive to left that looked good for a triple. McLean the classy outer-gardener making a sensational bare-handed catch, McAuliffe smashed another to left, McLean making a wonderful play. Miles was out, Barrett to Hub. Coffey. 0 runs, 0 hits, no erros 6th Inn—All Stars. McAuliffe fanned Connors and Coffey on six pitched balls. He then made Avery fly out to Kiernan at center. This was the third inning that Mac fanned two men each inning the first, third and sixth. In the fourth he fanned 2 He was pitching A-No.1 ball. 0 runs, 0 hits, 0 errors.

Ind Rourke out Barrett to Coffey. Schwab tore off a two bagger to center. Robins followed suit Cullen covered the ball shot it home to Avery killing Schwab standing up by five feet. Roche shot a wicked drive to third and Chuck Connors scooped it up like taking the Helout of Helmit 0 runs, 2 hits, 0 errors.

7th Inn All Stars, Cullen singled to left, went to third on Barrett's clout to right for his fourth hit 4 times at bat, Barrett stole second Mc Auliffe up to his old ticks fanned Clarke and McLean Maisenhelder out Rourke to Roche 0 runs, 2 hits, 0 errors

Ind. Joe Coffey called out on strikes by Barrett's quick delivery, Kiernan and McMahon were out by the Moore Coffey route 0 runs, 0 hits, 0 errors.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

2606—A New Dress For The Little Miss.

This is a very comfortable model, and may be finished with the sleeve in wrist or elbow length. The pipe plaits are a new feature. The style is good for linen, gabardine, voile, repp, poplin, silk, gingham, percale and chambray.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. Size 8 requires 3 yards of 36-inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 10 cents in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE SPRING AND SUMMER CATALOGUE, 1919, containing 350 designs of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns, a CONCISE AND COMPREHENSIVE ARTICLE ON DRESSMAKING; ALSO SOME POINTS FOR THE NEEDLE (illustrating 20 of the various, simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

Cyclops Oysters.

The oyster has a good-sized stomach, which is connected with the mouth by a short gullet; two pairs of gills for breathing, an intestine, a dark green liver, a two-chambered heart and an elementary nervous system, but is minus ears, nose and eyes. It also lacks the footlike appendage that many mollusks possess for the reason that it has no need of an organ of locomotion.

HOMESPUN YARN.

What e'er today is fashion's urge
She never frowns on good blue serge.

Buy first the foods needed for health (milk is one of them) and then buy to suit your family's palate, if your pocketbook will permit.

Buy cautiously at the bargain counter. The half or a third yard extra on the remnant is worth little to you unless you have use for it.

Have you ever sent for your copy of "Planning the Home Kitchen?" It's awaiting you at the state college at Ithaca, N. Y. Ask for R. C. F. H. 108.

When it comes to producing energy at low cost, on the basis of present prices there are only three common foods which vie with milk. These are salt mackerel, full cream cheese and dry beans.

Dairy cocktails! Scandalous? Not at all. One well-beaten egg and a few tablespoons of raspberry juice added to the milk and well shaken produce a carnation julep which is guaranteed to make Milwaukee jealous.

One New York state home bureau woman finds it convenient to keep on hand a little boiled rice which can be used in the following ways: As a cereal, for a vegetable, in soups, or for waffles, fritters, puddings and croquettes.

Find Indian Stone Celts.

In an article on Indian stone celts in the Wisconsin Archeologist, Charles E. Brown, chief of the state historical museum, describes the various classes of celts, or stone hatchets, and in what Wisconsin localities many of them have been found. Jefferson county has been the source of many celts, and other counties in which they have been found are Dane, Calumet, Brown, Waupaca, Walworth, Winnebago, Waukesha and Washington.

A Quoting Burg.

"By George!" triumphantly ejaculated a prominent resident of that enterprising hamlet. "Prattytown is getting to be more and more metropolitan right along. Why, dog-take-it, the all night restaurant stays open till half-past ten or seven every night of the week, except Sundays!"—Judge.

Good Manners.

Good manners, which give color to life, are of greater importance than laws which are but one of their manifestations. The law touches us here and there, but manners are about us, everywhere, pervading society like the air we breathe. Good manners, as we call them are neither more nor less than good behavior, consisting of courtesy and kindness.—Samuel Smiles.

The Right View and the Wrong.

"The man who makes good doesn't wait for opportunity to knock: he has the door wide open," says an exchange. That's the right spirit. The other day we heard a chap complaining because old Opp didn't stick his toe in the door like a book agent.—Boston Transcript.

K. H. S. ATHLETIC ASS'N REPORT

Despite the slight financial loss caused chiefly by the "flu" epidemic, the annual report of the Kingston High School Athletic Association, as submitted by Miss Ruth Seigle, treasurer, shows a gain during the year 1918-1919 of $117.52. The heaviest loss was sustained during the football season, amounting to $95.40. Dues, contributions from the minstrel show and other entertainments were sufficient to offset this loss. The association is the sole promoter of athletics at the school.

BIG BATTLE ON ARCHANGEL FRONT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, June 25.—A heavy fluctuating battle is progressing in the Shunga district, on the Archangel front, said a Reuter dispatch from Kem today.

On Sunday the allies attacked and forced the Bolsheviks to fall back six miles. The Bolsheviks stopped the allied advance by setting fire to a wood through which their route led.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

A HOT DAY.

"It was a very hot day," said Daddy, "and the sun was having a fine time watching the people in bathing at the seashore.

The Sun Makes My Feathers Warm.

"There were children, grown-ups, and they all loved the cooling water and they also loved Mr. Sun when they came out of the water.

"But after they had been out a little while they felt the hot sun and thought they wanted to go right back in the water.

"I'm getting ahead of you today," said the ocean to the sun, and the sun said, "Yes, this is the day you're getting ahead of me. But still if it were not for me you wouldn't be getting ahead of me." And the ocean roared and rumbled and said.

"Will you explain that to me, Mr. Sun? I don't quite understand."

"Surely," said Mr. Sun, grinning. "Of course it's very, very, very hot today. It's the first extremely hot day of the season. And so the people feel the heat very much.

"Last night I left a beautiful red coloring behind me, and the photograph which was taken of me in the ponds and in the ocean when you were quiet for a few moments was very red.

"Yes, they all took photographs of me last night when I was looking so red. To be sure these photographs aren't kept of me for I can be taken any time, and it is nicer to have lots of pictures of the sun and have them different at different times.

"Well, anyway, I was very red last night and the waters all reflected or took a picture of me as I looked. I not only had my picture taken but that was a hint to the people that today would be very hot, as very hot it is."

"Yes, it's very hot," said the ocean.

"And" continued Mr. Sun, "it was so hot that people slept on the beach all night. They were swimming late yesterday afternoon when I was going to bed, and this morning here were these people waking up and saying:

"'Ah, the moon has gone to bed for the day. The sun is up. Let us get up too, and have a swim in the beautiful ocean, for it is going to be hot—hotter even than yesterday.'

"For, Ocean, one reason it is so hot is that the clouds are full of heat blankets.

"In the city I have seen children playing on the roof trying to get some air and putting up umbrellas so I wouldn't make them too hot. This is one time when I have been treated like the King of the Clouds, in having the umbrellas put up for me.

"I have seen people in the city today putting vegetable seeds into boxes and saying:

"'This weather will make them grow.' They have put these boxes on their roofs and on windowsills. And I will help them too.

"I've seen a blackbird on the stump in yonder swamp talking to a duck who was in wading, and the blackbird said:

"'The sun makes my black feathers very warm.'

"And the duck said 'I am finding it hard to keep cool quack, quack.'

"And so, Ocean, while it is a very hot day, I am adding to the heat with my powerful rays. And it is because I am so hot that the people want to get cooled off by you. So you see it is because of me they are going to you."

"The sun smiled and the ocean said:

"Ah, that is nice of you, Mr. Sun, and you are really making people love me so much because you are showing them how nice it is to go in the water and be cool when you are making them so hot."

They Love the Water.

"Ah," said Mr. Sun, "I get started off with these strong hot rays and I can't really stop working when I get started like this, and I like to see the people cool off, Ocean, and I think they can find no better way than by going into your refreshing waves."

Two Artists.

Jackie had proudly brought his slate to daddy to show him the drawing upon it.

"What is it?" asked daddy.

"Why, daddy," said the surprised little boy, "it's a train."

"But you haven't drawn the carriages, sonny," said the father.

"No," said Jackie; "mother says the engine draws those."

His Curiosity.

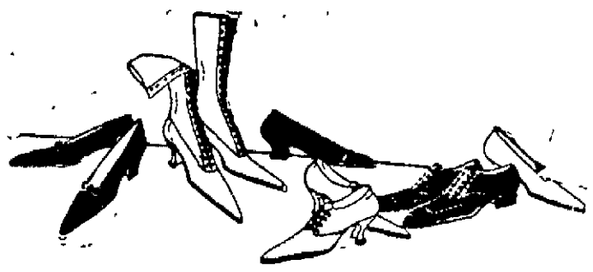

"What are you doing on the bureau, Tommie?"

"Standin' before the lookin'-glass," said Tommie. "Wanted to see how I'd look if I was twins."

Modern Spelling.

Professor Miller of the University of Minnesota asked ninety normal students to spell ten words, and the best record was seven of the ten words, repellent, collectible, picnicking, inoculate, consensus, inferred, sacrilegious, dissipate, bilious, villy.

CALL TO CHOW—

Hundreds of soldiers, sailors and marines are called to "chow" daily in Seattle by a military bugler atop the Soldiers' and Sailors' Club in the heart of the city's business section. War Camp Community Service adopted this novel way of informing the service men in a language they would all understand, that all the city's canteens are ready and eager to serve them three times a day.

To Polish Mahogany.

Boiled linseed oil is the finest thing for scrubby old mahogany, as it hardens and preserves the wood. Pour the oil on to a pad of soft flannel and rub the wood well. If there are any marks in the wood the oil will dissolve and harden. Wipe off the superfluous oil and polish with a dry, soft cloth. A little vinegar added to the oil will make a bright, clean, dry finish.

Charcoal Invaluable.

All kinds of glass vessels and other utensils may be purified from long-retained smells of every kind in the easiest and most perfect manner by rinsing them out with charcoal powder. Rubbing the teeth and washing out the mouth with fine charcoal powder will render the teeth beautifully white and the breath perfectly sweet. Putrid water is immediately deprived of its bad smell by charcoal.

Threw but Seven.

The quartermaster's department in Hoboken is anything but a place of joy. It is where the effects of many thousands of doughboys who "went West" are sent for distribution. Each pitiful package or bundle or box is checked up and sent to the nearest relative. Occasionally, however, the solemnity of the situation is relieved by the laughter of some returned hero who comes to the depot to announce that he is not dead and to claim his precious belongings. The other day a busy negro appeared, wearing three gold chevrons and a wound stripe, laughing heartily at the thought of him being reported dead. As if any old Hun could kill him! He told a tale of terrible fighting and suffering, all the time smiling cheerfully, and allowing as how he hoped his personal effects would be located. A small package, with his name on it, was at last found and opened for final checking. It contained a wad of money and the tools which had helped to enrich the dark man—a pair of dice. There was much laughter, hearty handshakes and back slapping, when the soldier was handed the money and the African golf outfit, which only threw seven.—New York Sun.

Indian Potlatch.

Potlatch is a corruption of an Indian word common among the Pacific coast tribes, meaning a festival of gifts. At a potshatl (potlatch) celebration the more personal property an Indian gives away, blankets, ornaments, etc., the higher he stands in the estimation of his neighbors, and the more he expects to receive in return at the next potlatch. The festival is accompanied by music, dancing and feasting.

Prisoners mutinied at Clinton prison because they wanted more recreation For some reason or other convicts expect a greater number of privileges under a Democratic administration It may be based on a fellow-feeling

Edwin Duffey was commissioner of highways for three years under a Republican state administration and not a breath of scandal was heard F S Greene, a Democrat, has been in office about three months and rumors are coming thick and fast The expected will happen once in a while and oftener than that when the Democrats are in power

Apparently there are a few men in the United States Senate who are no more anxious to buy a cat in a bag than they ever were These same men are undoubtedly intelligent enough not to bet on the other fellow s trick Strange as it may seem there are men who like to read a document before they subscribe to it As a matter of fact it is safer to look before you leap today just as it has always been and perhaps always will be

If every head of a family in America owned his home there would be no peril of Bolshevism in this country The homeowner is not a Bolshevist The homeowner has respect for the property of others, because he has property of his own and wants others to have respect for it The homeowner appreciates law and order He accepts the discipline of organized society because he knows how essential it is to the preservation of liberty

This great war has offered the supreme test of the only kind of internationalism worth talking about the internationalism which implies power and courage and disinterested willingness to sacrifice much in order to put down international wrong and establish international right When the emergency test was thus applied the professional internationalists showed themselves a sorry crew The really powerful men of intrigue and action who professed to the doctrine have been the efficient and evil tools of German autocracy, militarism and international tyranny. The milk and water intellectuals who prattled about the doctrine have been the timid and inefficient tools of the same foul masters

ENGLAND'S RACE PROBLEM

Disturbances, several of them amounting to riots, are reported from England, due to race antagonism between the white population and negroes, chiefly British subjects, who have been brought into the country to overcome the labor shortage caused by the war. This is a new and ought to be an illuminating experience to the English people. Hitherto British contact with the blacks has been only in distant colonies with a few soldier-supported white men in command of the natives, a very different situation from one wherein whites and blacks are economic rivals in a common territory and develop friction due to race prejudice. Imagining that no such racial antagonism could be roused among themselves, the British have viewed with a superior air and commented critically upon disturbances in the United States. Without a race problem of its own, England has failed to comprehend America's attributing its existence to inherent American lawlessness and slack government machinery.

With a race problem at their very doors the British may now perceive that even under the best ordered government in a highly civilized country a certain amount of popular disturbance due to race antagonism is inevitable. We may deplore such outbreaks and do everything possible to check them but when peace white and blacks come into contact in more or less equal numbers and on a more or less equal footing, there are bound to be disturbances at intervals If birds of a feather must flock together to secure harmony, we need not wonder at the rousing of antagonisms between distinct varieties of men. Race problems are too real to be lightly waved aside.

COMMENCEMENT OF HIGH SCHOOL

conception of a finer, better future. These visions cannot all be realized at once. The coming generations must complete them. The visions of yesterday become the realities of today and the visions of today will become the realities of tomorrow. And so the world will always grow, and new lands will be settled and new history will be written and new standards will be set. By whom will all these things be accomplished? By men of imagination, of vision."

A Problem of Reconstruction.

Carl Coursen, the third speaker, chose "The Problem of Reconstruction" as his commencement theme. The one great problem which effects everyone, said he, is that of tiding the country over the period of depression that is sure to follow the war. Already we are beginning to feel the after effects of the war boom. We hear reports of growing discontent, of unemployment, of strikes, of bomb plots. These are but the first rumblings of a gathering storm. If we do not wish the storm to break we must better the living conditions. Either wages must go higher or prices come down, for there must be a reasonable margin of earnings over base living expenses. The speaker pointed to England as the country from which we should take suggestions in solving this problem. "England," said he, "owes very materially her comparative freedom from unrest to the cooperation of her consumers in buying. Working men and women there have succeeded in dispensing to a very great extent with middlemen. When we think that the profit of the wholesaler and retailer often amounts to half the price of the article, we see that cooperative buying reduces prices to no small degree. Lower prices mean better living conditions. Better living conditions mean less unrest. Why cannot we apply cooperative buying in America."

In explaining the co-operative system, the speaker stated that shares of stock at five dollars each are sold to the inhabitants of the vicinity for the purpose of obtaining capital. The holders of these shares are with but few exceptions working men and women. The stock pays a share of interest and the stockholder has one vote regardless of the amount of shares he holds. The stockholders elect the manager of the store, hire the clerks and dictate the policies of the store. The prices are put as low as possible and any profit is distributed among the stockholders according to the amount of shares each holds. France, Italy, Holland, Denmark and Sweden have found the co-operative system a success. In the United States there are but a few hundred co-operative stores. The reason for this, said the speaker, is because the American workman is individualistic. There are so many languages and nationalities. Co-operation cannot well begin until workmen believe in their fellow men. On the day when the people shall co-operate either because of mutual understanding or of grim necessity, on that day a great many of our industrial problems will cease. May it come quickly."

The Lost Battalion.

Miss Edith Schryver took as the subject of her essay the undaunted crave courageous men of the 77th Division company under Major Charles S. Whittlesey, who were lost in the Argonne Woods, and who refused to surrender when such a demand was made on them by the Germans. They were given a task, said she, and answered "It shall be done." She told of the sufferings of that hand full of men surrounded by the enemy, staring death in the face, but with no thought of giving up. They would rather kill themselves, said she than surrender to the Germans. They, said she, represent the true spirit of America, the spirit which knows not failure.

Molders of History.

In Molders of History, Channing Clapp opened with the statement made by the great scientist Archimedes. "Give me a place to stand, and I will move the world." These words, said he, challenge our attention, for they suggest an application to other than scientific matters. As we look back over the records of civilization we find the world again and again being moved by the personality of the man of force, his lever, a vision for humanity. He called to mind the names of Alexander the Great, Caesar, Charlemagne and Napoleon. Their careers, he said, were startling, their personalities powerful, but their vision arrowed by selfish ambition. He placed the signers of the Declaration of Independence first as men of vision. The spirit of their words, he said, made possible the amazing demonstration in 1917 when without disorder two million men previously untrained were organized into an army that moved the world. Lincoln also was a man of vision, so vigorously upholding his principles that since his time many monarchies have changed hands. In the history to be written will be found the name of Theodore Roosevelt, said the speaker. His contribution to this country were many and varied. His contribution to the world are found in his activities for international arbitration and the support of the Hague conference. His efforts, said the speaker, were recognized when he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize. The speaker pointed to Woodrow Wilson as the latest dreamer, and his vision of nation for humanity.

The Crucible of War.

The next speaker was Dorothy Dangremond whose theme was "The Crucible of War." Her essay dealt with the ideal which inspired the American boys in the great war. It was this ideal, said she, inspired their endurance, their bravery, their spirit of adventure, their unselfishness, their hatred of war, and the consequent establishment of good will toward men. The war said she, has disclosed that the call of a man to give up the thought of his own concerns and think of what he can do for the good of humanity has been amazing. The American army in France achieved a record for bravery unsurpassed in history. They fought sober. This courage was inspired by the ideal of truly martyred like quality. Out of all the dismay and suffering there rises unconquered and undaunted the ideals for which our soldiers fought and died.

The Challenge of Democracy.

In his theme on the Challenge of Democracy, Ralph Hiller paid marked attention to the movements of the Bolshevists and I. W. W.'s in this country. In the U. S. A., said he, there exists to a perilous degree vague, uncertain and false ideas of democracy. There are millions in this country whose ideas as to government are radically different from those in which we so firmly believe. There are millions who do not even know what principles our government stands for. He spoke of the large numbers of Bolshevists, anarchists and I. W. W.'s in this country, of the large foreign population and the number of papers published in this country supporting other forms of government. The most shameful part, said he, is that many of us who do know the great doctrines of our government do not try to our utmost to defend them. Many, he said, assume that because our constitution is based on democratic principles the work is all done and our democracy is completed. What we need, said he, is a nation of idealists, or at least a majority of citizens thinking of the common good rather than selfish gains. The opportunity is still ours. The reins of the government, said he, are still in our hands.

A Man Among Kings.

Miss Mildred Garrison was the last speaker taking as her subject King Albert of Belgium. A Man Among Kings. She told of his love for his people and his loyalty to his country, how he had chosen honor in the place of breaking all laws of neutrality. She also touched upon the human side of the king telling incidents which dispayed his simple democratic character. Miss Garrison also gave a very graphic description of the King's triumphal entry into Brussels last November.

Prizes Awarded.

Following the speaking Superintendent Michael awarded prizes as follows: The Nellie A. Wood prize for excellence in English to Miss Miriam Pitts; The Eugene L. Resser prize for excellence in Modern languages to Miss Mildred Garrison who attained highest standings in three years of French, three years of German, and two years of Spanish; Ten dollar gold piece prize given by Hon. George Washburn to boy and girl in senior class attaining highest standard presented to Miss Mildred Garrison and Carl A. Coursen. The two prizes of ten dollar gold pieces given by the Hon. James A. Betts to undergraduates attaining the highest standard to Miss Dorothy Kennedy and Ralph Hiller, the latter won the same prize last year. Honorable mention in this class was awarded to Frederick Shroeder and Miss Wilhemina Westbrook. Prof. Michael appealed to the citizens to encourage work in the school by offering more prizes to the high school students.

After a brief address to the class of 1919, in which he presented the congratulations and best wishes of the board of education, President Harry H. Flemming presented the diplomas to the members of the class. The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. F. C. Moot.

Mercenary Love.

Two little cousins had quarreled, and the mother of one of them tried to make peace. "Amy," she said, "why did you tell Bobbie you wouldn't be his little sweetheart?" "'Cos he didn't ask me," replied Amy indignantly, "till he knowed I had a new dime!"

Tides of the Ocean.

The incoming and the outgoing of the tides is caused by the gravitational influence of the moon. The moon, so to speak, draws or lifts the water from the depths on the same principle that a pump lifts water. And as with a pump, the water rushes in to fill the space left; so the shallow water near shore rushes out to fill the extra space caused by rising of the water, on the principle that water seeks its own level.

Equal to the Occasion.

"Speaking of accommodating hotel managers," said a traveler, "the best I ever met was in a provincial town. I reached the hotel late in the evening. Just before I retired I heard a scampering under the bed and saw a couple of large rats just escaping. I at once complained at the office. The manager was as serene as a summer breeze. 'I'll fix that all right, sir,' he said. 'Boots! Take a cat to room 12 at once!'"

Washington's Advisers.

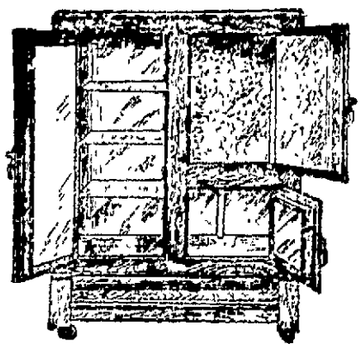

When Washington formed his cabinet it had but four members, the interior department being unknown, the war and navy departments being under one head, and the postmaster general being subordinate to the treasury. Nevertheless of these four positions, he gave two to Virginians, Secretary of State Jefferson and Attorney General Randolph; one to New York, Alexander Hamilton, and one to Massachusetts, Henry Knox.

Was Last Polish King.

In 1798, on the 12th of April, Stanislaus Poniatowski, the last king of Poland died. Poniatowski ascended the Polish throne in 1764. The condition of Poland required a strong man on the throne to keep the country from ruin, and Stanislaus lacked the necessary strength and statesmanship. Russia, Prussia and Austria divided this kingdom among them and the deposed king retired to Petrograd on a pension, where he died in 1798.

THE PART OF THE SECOND DIVISION

Private Astle, in Letter to Brother Boy Scout, Tells Interesting Tale of Last Days on St. Mihiel Sector and Praises Marines Whom His Artillery Unit Backed Up—General Lejeune Commends Men of Second.

Scout Jack DeWitt of Pearl street and Clinton avenue, of Troop No. 5, has received a long and most interesting letter, also a copy of "The Indian," a weekly publication published by the Second Division Association, at Neuwied-on-the-Rhine, Germany, from Private 1st C., W. N. Astle, medical detachment, 12th Field Artillery, A. E. F. Private Astle is a brother Boy Scout, and starts off his letter "Dear Brothers." After telling about the fine weather, of sports and recreation, he says the Second division has been watching the Rhine since December 13, and is still there, and does not see any use watching it "as the blame thing wouldn't do anybody any harm."

Second Would Occupy Berlin.

They have been coming home, he writes, since January 19, and haven't arrived there yet. So far as coming home by the first of September, that is another fake as General Foch says that if these squareheads do not sign this time that the A. E. F will advance further into Germany, the Second division will occupy Berlin and the First will occupy Frankfort, and the Third will take Hamburg. Berlin is only 400 miles from where the Second division lies and Private Astle writes: "So I see where we have another grand parade. Each gun section in the battery has a machine gun now. Of course, there will be a little fighting, but when those Devil Dogs open up with those rifles and machine guns and we with the seventy-fives, they will soon quit. When we left Chateau-Thiery they sent us some balloons with a message inside which read like this: 'Good-bye Second division, welcome Twenty-sixth.' But the next night when they made their attack they were surprised to find out that the Second was still there. The next night we left them, but only to be found in the morning of July 18th in the thickest of the fray. They knew the fighting Second wherever they saw it.

Boches Scared at Preparations.

The other day a Boche asked me how many Second divisions has the American army. I told him only one and asked him why he wanted to know. Well, he said, every time we went on a new front we always found the Second division there. If they don't watch out they will find us again on our way to Berlin. We are already, just waiting command to break camp. The other morning we had call to arms about 2 o'clock. The artillery men went down to the stables, hitched up to the guns and caissons and came up on the main street. You ought to have seen these Boches. They were scared to death. As I sit writing it makes me think where we were a year ago today. Our batteries were strung across the Paris and Metz road. About 5 o'clock in the morning we were still on the train but we could see the people moving on the roads with just as much as they could pile into a wagon.

One of the boys said this must be the month in which the French move. I wouldn't get up so early to move, would you? Well, we soon found out what he trouble was. Near our position was a little town by the name of ——. Here we got lots to eat, such as potatoes, chicken, rabbits and pigs. An old man and lady were the only two in the town. They told us the Boche was to be in the town by 7 o'clock that night.

Well, they might have had done so had we not changed their hands. At first they had a straight flush—all red, but our little Marines soon gave them a black hand—full of spades and clubs. Not enough credit is given our little U. S. Marines. They stayed there for twenty hours without any artillery and nothing to eat, only what they carried; a can of corn willy, three boxes of hard tack and a canteen full of water.

The French had retreated and when they saw us going up told us to go back, but we didn't know that word retreat. They told us we were crazy, but we went just the same. They think different now. A Boche got through the lines and had on a French general's uniform, and he was the one who told them to retreat.

Blocked Huns' Way to Paris.

We took the positions the French left. The Boche disguised as a French general came up and told our battalion major to go back as the Boches were only one kilo away. He laughed at him and said, "Why, we have just got here. What do you think we are." The would-be Frenchman was picked up later by some of our divisional brigade. They found maps on him and letters telling him how to go about his work. The French came back the next day and all that night we fired. They tried to put a bridge across, but every time they got it finished and filled with troops data would come in from Q. P. and down she would go. Once we let them land about one hundred on our side and then down she went. Then the first thing the Marines knew these square heads were hollering "Kamerad." Our boys told them "We never saw you before." They said they had come four kilos without hearing a shell. They didn't no another. They had their hands on one another's shoulders singing the Watch on the Rhine. I think they had better stayed at home and watched the blamed old Rhine. They were coming in mass formation so the Marines did not have to take much aim at first. The guns were fired for forty-eight hours straight. The French told us that they would blow up, but what did we care. Our Marines were ahead of us and that was all we asked for. The guns got so hot after a while that we could cook on them. After firing about six shells we would pour water down the barrels and when it came out of the breech it was boiling. The Boche called up the three-inch machine gun artillery. Many a hand battle was fought at Belleau Woods, but at last after forty days' fighting we reached our last objective. Then we were to be taken out of the lines and sent to the southern part of France for a well earned and deserved rest, but at 4:40 on the morning of July 18th, after a hike of forty-eight hours, without any sleep or a bit to eat, the Boche found us there once again ready to give them a taste of the three-inch machine guns.

Had French Women in Stockade.

At 12 o'clock we had passed the Boche front line of trenches and for the first time saw some of our own work. Once upon a time a fine city stood on this road but now it is ruins; nothing left but a few walls. While hiking to our new position the Boche were filling up the shell holes in the road. He had to stop once to let the cavalry go by as we had the Boche out into an open wheat field. They were bringing in some prisoners. An officer said to a sentry, that had some on the road working, "You shouldn't work those prisoners. They are women." A quick examination found it to be so. Our men have found these creatures chained to machine guns, also. When we captured Thiacourt in the St. Mihiel front why we found a stockade full of French girls and women, also a few men who had disobeyed the Boche's orders. They were afraid when they first saw us, but when they were told that we were Americans they leaped for joy. The Boche had held that sector since the beginning of the war. The city of Metz was only 25 miles to the east of Thiacourt. Ever since the beginning of the war it had been used by both sides as a rest sector, just like Verdun, that was a quiet sector. But it didn't stay so for very long after we got there. At Verdun the Boche would come out and hang his wash on the barb wire, so one day when the Marines wanted to start the fight, when they came out some of them never went back. Our planes found a German camp with one large building in it, but come to find out it was just used as a protection to the men. One night when they were all standing around it the Marines in the O. P. sent in the data to us and in a few minutes arms, legs, mess kits and a good part of the building went flying through the air. In the Toul sector they would come down to the banks of the river to fish. One night about forty-five of them were coming across No Man's Land, and our Marines, always on the alert, saw them and opened fire. Out of the forty-five only three were saved. There was a railroad station in No Man's Land and there's where the Boches were going. It was full of Vin Rouge and Cognac. No place stayed quiet very long after we arrived there. Our motto was Heaven, Hell or Hoboken by Christmas. Pershing said Berlin Bound or Bust, and that was the spirit that was kept up all through the war by every man of this division.

All Honor to Marines.

So boys, every time you see a Marine wearing one or more wound chevrons give him a salute, as he is worthy of it. The same thing is done over here. We can never repay them for their gallant valor. We are very proud to say we backed them up all through the war, and as these old fellows that are over here say, "We will take off our hats to the 12th Field Artillery any time," and we take off our hats to them for when they were ahead of us we knew we were going to get what we went after. The Engineers also did some gallant work. Besides mending roads, doing camouflage work, building bridges, they would go into the lines and fight. Also just before our boys would go over the Engineers would go out and cut the wire. Each and every man was ready to share half of what he had with the other. Lots of times I have seen two

OPEN SESAME TO BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

PROPERLY executed engraved or printed matter is the OPEN-SESAME to business opportunity--the charm which secures admission to the sphere of profitable trade and exit through the portals of business difficulty.

Every business establishment is judged by the character of the medium through which it introduces itself and its claims to those it would have for its patrons.

The best business in the world can be discredited by an unfavorable introduction.

The average business is not personally introduced. Printed and engraved matter—its stationery and announcements—state for it its position and the reasons why it is entitled to consideration.

The prospective patron cannot afford to look further for a criterion by which to measure the value of a name upon the printed or engraved matter and of the business behind that name.

And so it has become almost universally the fact that good business establishments talk in good printing and engraving.

Let your printed and engraved matter stamp your business as among the best.

men make a meal on a can of corn will and a box of hard tack. Water for drinking was taken out of a shell hole most of the time. So if they ask you who saved Paris just refer them to the 5th and 6th Marines and the rest of the Second division. I want you all to know that I enlisted from dear old Kingston. The recruiting officer by the name of Smith from the Knights of Columbus building sent me away. I left Kingston on the 12:12 train on May 24, 1917, and was sworn in by a medical officer at 10 o'clock the next day. Could have stayed right there at the hospital at Fort Slocum, where everything was cream, but told him I had enlisted to go to France where my services were needed. Told him if I wanted to stay in America I wouldn't have enlisted. From there was sent to Fort H. S. Wright, Fishers Island, N. Y. Here Capt. Jones tried to keep me but I told him the same thing. Now that the excitement is all over the next thing is when are we coming home? Well, best regards to all my Kingston friends. Tell all the boys of the Troop to write. Hoping to be back with you all soon again, I still remain your brother scout, now with the fighting Second. Hoping to receive an early reply, I am as ever, Bill,

PVT. 1 C., W. H. ASTLE.

Perhap by the time you receive this we will be on our way to Berlin. We should worry. We are getting tired of staying in this blame place.

A Message From the Skies.

Pvt Astle also sends a leaflet, being a message from the skies by Major General John A. Lejeune, commanding Second Division, A. E. F. On the back of it he writes, "It was dropped to us from an aeroplane on June 1st. Put a copy of this in The Freeman, with your letter." He also marked some interesting articles in "The Indian," and in a book telling of the work of the Second Division. "It isn't honor," Pvt. Astle writes, "that we are looking for, but so many divisions have been trying to take away from us the honor that we rightfully own at last we have come to the conclusion to speak for ourselves." "The Message from the Skies," praises the Second Division for its work north of the Marne near Chateau-Thierry, across the Paris-Metz highway, stopping the advance of the enemy, despite heavy losses. Reviews how it had, on June 6th, seized Hill 142, Bouresches, and the southern part of the Bois de ..., which it later cleared, captured Vaux, and advanced its lines along the entire front. In closing his message Major General Lejeune says, "It is very fitting that we should celebrate, on German soil the first anniversary of this great battle. It was in that battle that the American established his moral supremacy over the enemy, and this was the prelude to his final defeat. All honor, therefore, should be given to both the living and to the dead of the 'Immortal Second Division' for their glorious victory in the Chateau Thierry sector."

DIVORCE DECREES GRANTED.

Interlocutory Decrees Secured By Mrs. Birch and Mrs. Purdy.

The divorce action brought by Gertrude La Fond Birch against Reginald Birch was heard on Saturday last in Poughkeepsie at a regular special term of the supreme court before Justice Morschauser. The defendant, who lives in New York City, is a celebrated artist, his drawings and illustrations being familiar for many years to the readers of leading magazines and popular books in this country and England. Both parties have many friends in Kingston and in this vicinity where they have frequently visited. The action was brought on statutory grounds and was not contested, although the defendent appeared personally. Mrs. Birch, Mrs. Virginia Williams of New York City and Chris J. Flanagan of this city were examined by Gilbert F. Kennedy, the attorney for the plaintiff, and an interlocutory decree of divorce was granted by Justice Morschauser.

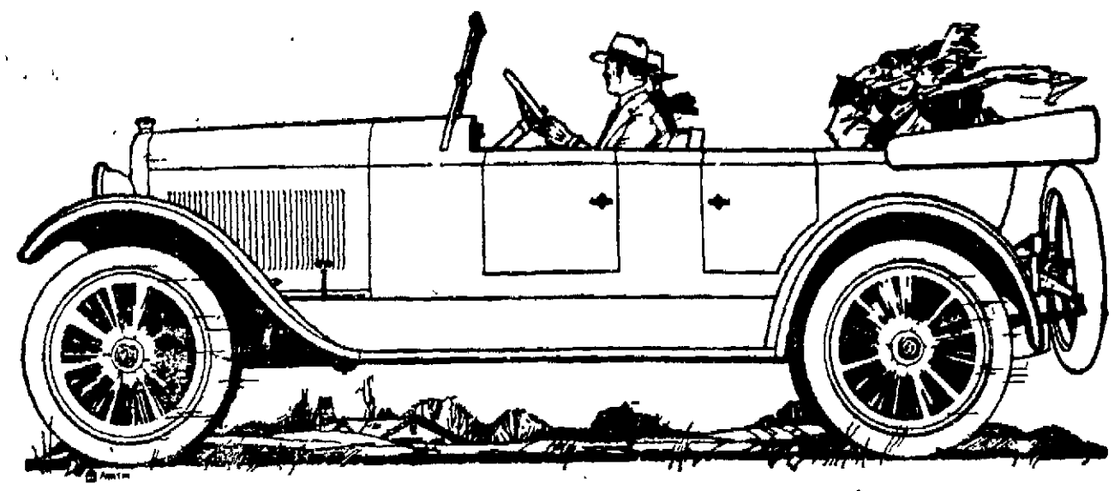

Another action for divorce, Laurena Minnie Purdy against Orville W. Purdy, both residents of Kingston, was also heard at the same special term. The action was uncontested. Various acts of infidelity were proved, a Kingston woman being named as corespondent, the indiscretions occuring at Waterbury Ct., and at other places. Justice Morschauser questioned one witness rather closely upon the latter's somewhat broad views of morality and as to certain customs which the witness seemed to believe were approved. An interlocutory decree of divorce was granted. Gilbert F. Kennedy was the attorney for the plaintiff.

Warren All Stars' Dance.

The Warren All Stars' Baseball Club will hold its society novelty carnival entertainment and shirt-waist dance at the Kingston Point Casino Monday evening, June 30. Music will be furnished by Shurter's orchestra. Several good singers will be heard, including Thomas Dolan, tenor, in some of the latest ballads from New York, and Clifford Moore in song hits from Broadway musical comedies. Tickets can be secured at the following places: C. W. Warren's, Fair street; post office building, Dulin's news depot, near West Shore, on Broadway; O'Reilly's news store, Broadway; McTague, lower Broadway; A. J. Murphy, on the Strand.

The New Series Chandler Dispatch

THE Chandler Dispatch, for a year past, has outsold all other cars of the sport type. The Chandler factory has been unable to build this car in quantities which could fill the demand. Its popularity is one of the high spots in motordom.

And now comes the new series Dispatch—a snappy, handsome car. Thousands of alert Americans, who appreciate Chandler quality, welcome the new Dispatch. You, too, will be delighted with it if you wish a really good car, with style in design and beauty in finish and unexcelled in its ability to perform.

The new series Chandler Dispatch is handsomely upholstered in bright finish hand buffed leather. It seats four passengers in the ultimate degree of comfort. Its finish is in the beautiful new Chandler Rainbow Blue, richly lustrous.

You are asked to pay much more for cars which might perhaps be compared with the Chandler. And cheap cars sell for but little less.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, June 25.—Roland Neice, who is employed in the grocery store of Andrew M. Taylor at Modena, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neice, on Broadway.

Mrs. Warren K. Van Vliet is spending the week in Jersey City.

Esopus Council, No. 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, will meet Friday evening, June 27, in their rooms in Spinneweber's Hall on Broadway instead of Wednesday evening on account of graduating exercises at Pythian Hall on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hinman of Flint, Michigan, are guests of Mrs. Hinman's sister, Mrs. A. H. Schryver, on Broadway. Mr. and Mrs. Hinman motored from their home and camped out all the way, having their outfit with them. They report a most delightful trip.

Private Percy Taylor, 3201b F. A. Medical Department, has returned to his home on South Broadway from overseas. Private Taylor is looking fine and has been well and can relate wonderful experiences. His many friends gave him a glad welcome.

Carnival Aided Hose Company.

The treasury of T. B. Cornwell Hose Co., at Saugerties, has been augmented to the extent of $750, the company's percentage of the net receipts from the carnival given by James F. Murphy's Shows in that village last week under the auspices of the hose company.

A DISCOVERY THAT BENEFITS MANKIND

Two discoveries have added greatly to human welfare.

In 1835 Newton originated the vacuum process for condensing milk with cane sugar to a semi-liquid form.

In 1883 Horlick at Racine, Wis., discovered how to reduce milk to a dry powder form with extract of malted grains, without cane sugar.

This product HORLICK named Malted Milk. (Name since copied by others.) Its nutritive value, digestibility and ease of preparation (by simply stirring in water) and the fact that it keeps in any climate, has proved of much value to mankind as an ideal food-drink from infancy to old age.

"DIRECT BITE TEETH"

After years of experimenting our laboratories have discovered a direct bite set of artificial teeth. These plates improve the sense of taste and insure perfect enunciation and articulation. The teeth absolutely cannot be discerned from natural teeth. These teeth because of the direct bite have three times the biting strength of ordinary plates. Are you now wearing artificial teeth? If so, we strongly advise you to call and investigate this new plate.

ICE SCARCITY CAUSES DAMAGE

The dealers, the railroads and the farmers are having all kinds of trouble in cooling and preserving the milk owing to the great shortage of ice. The open winter made it impossible in many sections to put in an adequate supply, and there are many farmers and dealers who have no ice. This makes it necessary to cool the milk by water which is on some farms almost an impossible task. The result is that thousands of cans of milk are being refused at the stations because the farmers are unable to get it to the stations at the temperature required by the board of health.

Even if the milk reaches the station in good shape, the dealers and the railroads are also short of ice, and there is a tremendous loss with sour milk when it reaches the city. Farmers are helping the situation some by taking extreme sanitary precautions and by getting the milk into cold water as soon as it is drawn from the cow, so that the bacteria in the milk which helps to sour it is kept at a minimum.

Comparison of Revenue Production Being Made By P. S. C.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, June 25.—(Special) The Public Service Commission, Second District, is taking steps to ascertain the effect of revenue changes in the operation of electric railroads in the second and third class cities of the state, following permission by the commission to make increases in fare. It has asked railroads upon which fare rates have been advanced to furnish comparative monthly statements of passenger revenue, revenue passengers carried and car miles operated each month since an increased tariff has been in effect, compared with the corresponding months of the prior year and in which lower fares prevailed.

A SURPRISED SERGEANT.

President Wilson Too as He Got Orders.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, Mass., June 25.—How a sergeant of the Motor Transport Corps, American Expeditionary Forces, told President Wilson over the telephone to "lay off that stuff" and was otherwise "fresh and sassy" is related in the Steering Wheel, the journal of the corps, a copy of which has just reached here. The article follows:

"There's an M. T. C. sergeant in Paris who is drowning slowly but surely in the sea of despond. He doesn't dare to come up for air or even to lift one hand above the surface and feebly wave for help.

"He's a sergeant-dispatcher in the Paris M. T. C. office. One of his duties is to keep tabs on the automobile assigned to President Wilson. When he wants to give instructions to the driver of this car he often calls up the president's residence in Paris and has the 'Paris White House' orderly—whom the sergeant knows well—call the driver to the phone.

"The other day he called up. President Wilson happened to be standing near the phone and himself answered the ring. 'The president speaking,' he said crisply.

"'Say,' said the M. T. C. sergeant at the other end of the line; 'how in h—— do you get that way, anyhow? You just lay off that stuff, fellow. Get outside. Whistle to the driver of No. 4 car and tell him to come a runnin' to this phone. Get me?'

"'But,' said President Wilson in a tone that would make anybody sit up and take notice; 'this is the president.'

"It was then that the M. T. C. sergeant sank without a gurgle or a bubble to show his whereabouts. And he has no intention whatever of coming to the surface until he has a discharge from the United States army safely buttoned up in the inside coat pocket of a new civilian suit."

Honor Belongs to Vermont.

The first state added to the original 13 composing the United States was Vermont. The Green Mountain state had a varied career up to the time of its entrance into the Union. Two centuries ago a tract of southern Vermont was granted to Connecticut. In 1763 New York claimed the territory of Vermont under grants from Charles II. to the duke of York, and ordered the sheriff to return the names of those who had settled in Vermont under titles from New Hampshire, which had also made grants in the territory. A dispute arose between the latter colony and New York, the claims of which were later sustained by the king. The "Green Mountain Boys," under Ethan Allen were organized to oppose the "Yorkers," and later played a prominent part in the Revolution. After the establishment of the Republic New York's claims were overthrown and Vermont became an independent state.

Grudgitis.

Not long ago a remarkable woman died in London. When she was about twenty-one years old she became engaged to a young man whom her father did not wish her to marry. In her angry disappointment she took to her bed and remained there for 73 years, dying at the age of ninety-four. This is a striking instance of the disease that might be named "Grudgitis." It is a sad sickness. It injures everyone around, but most of all the originator of it. It has a way of magnifying itself if attention is paid to it, and it grows immediately better if neglected. When it once gets a grip on one, it is worse than typhoid, pneumonia, tuberculosis, and smallpox put together. Avoid grudgitis as you would the plague! —Exchange.

How Old Is Chess?

Just exactly how old chess really is nobody knows. Some authorities credit Palamedes with the invention of it, and Palamedes was a Grecian hero of the Trojan war, meaning that the game dates back as far as 1050 B. C. But even more astounding is the fact that a game essentially the same as modern chess was played in Hindustan nearly 5,000 years ago. Thence it spread to Persia, after that to Arabia and finally came into Spain in the eighth century. After that, of course, it attained to popularity in nearly all western Europe. It is the most intellectual of all games of skill and sponsored by the intellectuals of all countries. Indeed our own Dr. Benjamin Franklin was an enthusiastic player of chess.

Where Most Grain Grows.

In a wedge-shaped region east of the 100th meridian and bounded by a line from southwestern Pennsylvania across Kentucky and Missouri to Oklahoma, thence north to North Dakota and back across Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan to Pennsylvania—in all about one-fifth of the United States—are produced four-fifths of the corn, three-fourths of the wheat and oats, and three-fifths of the hay crops of the nation. This belt, most of which can be plowed easily and has a fertile soil, is the most productive area in the world devoted to corn, which is the most productive per acre of the food crops.

The Stormy Petrel.

The birds known to sailors as Mother Carey's chickens, whose appearance is supposed to foretell a storm, are otherwise known by the term stormy petrel (Thalassidroma pelagica). The bird seems to run in a remarkable manner along the surface of the sea, where it picks up its food. The petrel is a small bird of dusky plumage, nocturnal in habit, most abundant in the southern hemisphere. The name Mother Carey is supposed to be a corruption of the "Mother Cara"—dear mother—of Lecanine sailors.

Bedouin Bards

The descriptive power and fidelity of Arabic poetry in setting forth both the life of the people and the scenery of the clime are remarkable It conjures up visions of tawny brows flowing beards soft eyes picturesque turbans prawling chargers and patient dromedaries We seem to be there It is the land of the date tree and the fountain the ostrich and the giraffe the tent and the caravan It is the home of the simoon and the mirage It is the world of the desert and the stars Hospitality waves her torch through the night to win the wanderer to be a guest The very picture embodiment breath blaze of all this is in the lyrics of the Bedouin bards The richness of their language and something of the character of the people who use it are shown in the fact that it has 80 names for honey 500 for the lion and a thousand for the sword —William Russell Alger

Mysterious Stonehenge

An English historian alludes to Stonehenge as the probable remains of an ancient Druidical temple The druids were [illegible] astrology magic and [illegible] lore generously giving their pupils 20 years to finish the course They made human sacrifices to the gods and venerated the oak and the mistletoe It was a great day when mistletoe was found growing on an oak It was cut off with a knife of gold and a festive [illegible] at which a pair of [illegible] were sacrificed If stones could speak [illegible] the ruins of Stonehenge would have a good deal to say

Selling "Good Will"

What is "good will" [illegible] that the be seen so often listed among the assets of a business concern? What constitutes it and how is its value computed down to the dollars and cents And why does it vary so much? Good will according to accountants is one of the measures of a company's success It affords a line alike on the efficiency of the concern and the solubility of its products and its prospects for future prosperity But it is an intangible thing an element that is not contained in actual figures on a company's books —Kansas City Star.

Optimistic Thought.

Suavity will collect more bills than a dozen lawsuits.

THE STORY BY ELINOR CHIPP
A KINGSTON GIRL
"DON'T TURN ME DOWN"

What would you do, an officer and a gentleman, if a beautiful woman stole your name? Would you pretend you had really married her? Go see why stole an unknown man's name go see what that man did. You'll have the tensest hour of amazing plot, love, adventure and thrills you've ever known.

"THE AMAZING WIFE"

is a play that will keep you on edge, for never did a white man place a woman in a more dramatic situation

OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT AND THURSDAY.

Work With Others

No matter how much enthusiasm, how much order, how much ability may [illegible] if it is misdirected it [illegible] help but it must hinder the work of the world Learn to work with people not against them Stand [illegible] for what is right and against that which is wrong, but do not throw your energy into constant striving against theories and opinions, and even actions of others Let your ardor and enthusiasm and your love of life be constructive. Seek to build up and not to tear down for that is the way to help on in the scheme of living

Seek to Realize Ideals.

The life that is a "comer" is charged with energy. The best plans in the world must be worked to make them productive. Life with ideals is something but it's the ideals plus active application that brings the fruits. Many a fellow with small ability, but that ability concentrated to a definite purpose, rises to merited recognition in life. When today's efforts forecast tomorrow's activities there is a continuity that produces rounded character and symmetrical development.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Remus of 17 New street celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Tuesday evening. A number of relatives and friends were present. Among the guests were the Rev. and Mrs. A. Schmidtkonz. The Rev. Mr. Schmidtkonz, pastor of the Spring Street German Lutheran Church, was the officiating clergyman at the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Remus 25 years ago. At the opening of the celebration the Rev. Mr. Schmidtkonz made a short address and extended congratulations in behalf of the congregation of the church of which Mr. and Mrs. Remus are members. Mr. Remus is well-known in this city, being a ship carpenter employed by the Cornell Steamboat Company. They have one daughter, Miss Agnes, clerk for the Kingston Coal Company. Refreshments were served and a number of handsome presents received.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Legg, Jr., who have been visiting relatives and friends in town for a few days, have returned to their home in Brooklyn.

A strawberry shortcake supper will be held at the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church, Friday evening, June 27th, under the auspices of the stewardess board, No. 7.

Clinton Chapter, O. E. S., No. 445, will hold their regular stated meeting in the Masonic Hall, Wall street, on Friday evening, June 27, at 7:45. Members are urged to be present as the chapter closes for the summer recess after this meeting. Master Masons and members of the order are welcome.

Auto Park Taking Shape.

A fence is being erected at the rear of the Ulster county lot on John street, to be used as an auto parking place, to keep automobiles from running on the lot alongside the county jail. The crushed stone driveway entrances reinforced with heavy asphalt have been constructed on the Crown street and John street sides of the auto park. It is expected the parking place will be thrown open to the public in about a week.

Osterhoudt to Remodel Bank.

The general contract for the improvement to the National Ulster County Bank, 309 Wall street, has been let to Peter C. Osterhoudt & Co., contractors and builders. They will do the carpenter work, and the mason work has been sub-let to Charles J. Michaud.

Money means work. Don't labor for trivialities. Save your money and buy Stamps.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 25.—Although the stock market was irregular at the opening today and many stocks yielded during the first fifteen minutes, there was a good demand in evidence and upturns from low levels were quickly in order. Steel common, after yielding ⅜ to 107¾, quickly recovered this loss. Baldwin Locomotive opened up ½ at 103⅜ and after reacting to 102⅝ advanced to 103¼. Sinclair Oil dropped ¾ to 60¾ and then advanced to 61⅞. Corn Products opened ½ higher at 79½, followed by a reaction to 78⅝. Anaconda rose ⅛ to 80 while American Smelting dropped ⅝ to 79⅜. American International opened down ⅞ at 105½. United Cigars yielded ¼ to 164¼ and Tobacco Products 1 point to 106¾. Pierce Arrow was heavy, falling 1⅝ to 59¼. Texas Pacific rose 1⅜ to 62¾, with a reaction to 62.

The copper issues attracted attention during the forenoon. Cerro de Pasco rose over 3 points to above 57; Utah nearly 3 points to 89⅝; and American Smelting nearly 3 points to 82¾. Gains of over one point were made in most of the other copper issues. Steel common rallied to 106⅝; Baldwin 1⅜ to 104⅛; United Cigars over 3 points to 167¼; Marine common 2 points to 49¾; and Corn Products fell over 1 point to 78¾.

The market closed irregular; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds heavy.

CITY SCHOOLS GRADUATE 80

The Twenty-third Commencement Exercises of Kingston's Grammar Schools Held—A Pleasing Program.

This afternoon the twenty-third commencement exercises of Kingston's grammar schools were held in the high school auditorium, and were largely attended. Eighty eighth grade pupils were presented with their diplomas, and an exceptionally fine program was rendered by members of the graduating classes.

Gertrude Welsh of School No. 2, gave a pleasing recitation "Aunt Hitty Tarbox" by Kate Douglas Wiggins. Her enunciation and delivery were extremely good.

The next number on the program was a recitation on "Charlemagne" delivered forcefully by Jacob Solomon Roodney of School No. 3. He was followed by Harold A. Landhurst of School No. 4, who recited "The Creed of the Youthful Patriot." Both recitations were well delivered.

"The Meaning of Our Red Cross" was the subject of Edith Dodson of School No. 5, while John G. Garon of School No. 6 gave an oration "Duty of Intelligence." Both handled their subjects in a masterly manner.

"Westbrook Stelle of School No. 7, spoke on "The Hope of the World" and Rose B. Geil of School No. 8 told of "Taking an Elevator." Both speakers handled their respective subjects in a way to cause delight.

In fact the entire afternoon's program was of a high order, and each and every speaker showed the result of earnest faithful study and work.

The eighth grade pupils who graduated, and received their diplomas were.

AMERICA'S IMMORTALS

CARL F. PAYSON,
Sergeant, Company C, 125th Infantry.

Sergt. Payson (deceased) received the Distinguished Service Cross for conspicuous gallantry in action with the enemy at Cierges, northeast of Chateau-Thierry, France, August 1, 1918. During the attack made by his company on the village of Cierges, Sergt. Payson was mortally wounded in the head by a machine gun bullet. He succeeded in keeping on his feet, however, and with the attacking wave, encouraging them. By his strong will power he instilled in them all the spirit of fearlessness. Mrs. Minnie Timmerman, his mother, lives in Monroe, Mich.
